Cops arrest suspect in pants attack

In custody. Investigation continues, but police confident attacks on women perpetrated by someone acting alone

Ottawa police say they have made an arrest in relation to a series of sexual assaults involving a man sneaking up on women, pulling their pants down and sexually assaulting them.

Police say they arrested a man riding a bus around 7 p.m. on May 9. They say they charged him with one count of sexual assault, one count of breach of probation in relation to an incident that happened in the area of Loretta Street and Young Street in Ottawa on April 16.

Ottawa police Staff Sgt. John McGetrick said the arrest came as a result of a combination of "investigative techniques and information from the public." He said the arrest was made without incident on Richmond Road near Hartleigh Avenue. McGetrick said the investigation continues and he expects to lay more charges in the coming days.

McGetrick said the man arrested is known to police, but he would not say how. He said he hoped the arrest brought a sense of relief to the community.

"You can never erase what horror these people went through, but hopefully this will bring some sense of closure for them," he said.

Gavin Sean Griffiths, 25, of Ottawa, appeared in court Thursday afternoon. He was remanded in custody and will appear in court via video teleconference on May 15.

Hélène Campbell back in hospital

Hélène Campbell, the 21-year-old Ottawa woman recovering from a doublelung transplant, is back in Toronto General Hospital after experiencing shortness of breath.

A blog posting late Wednesday by her mother, Manon, says Hélène was re-admitted to hospital on Sunday night. She is undergoing various tests to help determine the reasons for her shortness of breath and to help the medical team decide on a course of treatment.

Manon Campbell writes that infection and rejection remain major risks, as they do for all transplant patients, especially at this stage of recovery.

She adds that while

She adds that while waiting for more tests and results, Hélène's attitude remains "strong and positive."

Campbell became the unofficial face of organ donation in Canada after attracting celebrity endorsements for her cause.

She was diagnosed with advanced idiopathic pulmonary fibrosis last October and underwent surgery at Toronto General Hospital earlier this month.

Pop superstar Justin Bieber helped catapult Campbell into the spotlight by endorsing her campaign. Campbell later appeared on Ellen DeGeneres' daytime talk show via Skype and has been invited to return in person once she recovers.

Campbell has been keeping her supporters posted on her progress through her blog — alungstory.ca — and her Twitter account, which currently boasts more than 14,000 followers.

"I'm the only one pretty much out of my friends who is pro-life," he said. "A lot of them are not like me at all and lot of them think I'm crazy."

Several pro-life Conservative MPs addressed the crowd, including Kitchener Centre's Stephen Woodworth, who introduced a private members' bill last month calling for a parliamentary committee to study the legal definition of when life begins.

But even standing in the crowd, which included many Catholic students bussed in from elsewhere in Ontario, Malec wasn't holding out much hope for a change to Canada's abortion laws.

Ottawa gets its groove on with electronica scene

Electronic dance music. City is courting some of the biggest names in EDM this spring and summer for major festivals including Bluesfest

LOFARO joe.lofaro@metronews

This seems to be the year Ottawa found its groove and the budding electronic dance music (EDM) scene here is finally catching on.

First, there is the Embrace the Night finale party, and the school of the school

First, there is the Embrace the Night finale party, called Electrik Tulipe, that the Canadian Tulip Festival is holding May 18 at the CE Centre. Then the Escapade Music Festival takes over on Canada Day weekend outside the Canadian Aviation Museum.

Next, is the "electro-fied" RBC Royal Bank Bluesfest beginning July 4 with more than 40 acts who will grace the Electro Stage.

Ottawa-based promoter DNA Presents booked most of the acts at the three events and is watching the growth of EDM unfold.

They courted one of the biggest names in EDM — Tiesto — and at last year's Canada Day celebrations the Dutch electronica phenom wowed thousands of people with his outdoor show for DNA's second annual Escapade Music Festival on George Street.

The thought of the Dutch music producer and DJ ever spinning tracks in the quiet streets of O-town was at one time a more further.

time a mere fantasy.

Michael O'Farrell, DNA

Presents' vice-president of marketing, said Tiësto's agent wanted to bring him back to Escapade for a second time, but had to say no this year.

"For us we wanted to bring something different so we passed on it," said O'Farrell.

Turning away artists of that calibre is new for DNA Presents, and it might be a sign Ottawa is creating a name for itself in the EDM scene. (Tiësto is instead playing Bluesfest.)

"It's becoming more top 40, and before it was seen as underground, nightclub music," said O'Farrell.

Artists aren't skipping over Ottawa as much as they used to, he added.

"When we wanted an act or a DJ, we had to push hard, contact, and follow up," said O'Farrell. "It was a Audience development has been a crucial part of Bluesfest over the past 18 years, Côté said.

They brought in dubstep pioneer and three-time Grammy winner Skrillex to the festival last year and introduced guests to the new genre for the first time.

This year, Skrillex's name is back on the roster with dozens of electronica artists.

"The motivation for continuing to book these types of artists came from a positively overwhelming response from Bluesfest's electronic-music fans," said Côté in an e-mail interview with Metro.

"In keeping the festival both current and classic, it would have been hard to justify ignoring this demand."

Organizers with the Canadian Tulip Festival seem to agree. In a surprise move for the family-oriented festival, they brought in three electronic artists from Europe to perform at Electrik Tulipe at the CE Centre

In keeping with the

Dutch-Canadian theme, one of the DJs and music producers — Nicky Romero — hails from the Netherlands. Third Party and Swedish House Mafia's Steve Angello will play with him. Stephan Klovan, the festival's entertainment director, hopes to sell 5,000 tickets for Electrik Tulipe.

"Ottawa's coming into its own and there's kind of a renaissance with the new CE Centre," Klovan said.

"We're trying to bring more of this kind of entertainment to Ottawa instead of having to go to Montreal and Toronto and American cities."

CHEO. Jump in mental-health emergencies is straining resources, senior official says

A 50 per cent jump in emergency psychiatric visits to the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario in the past two years has put some strain on resources, says a mental-health official at the hospital.

The challenge is that we've had to meet an increase of demand for services by 50 per cent or more but we haven't increased our resources by 50 per cent, for sure," said Dr. Haz-en Gandy, chief of hospital-based mental-health services at CHEO.

To cope, the hospital has made numerous administrative changes, such as increasing the hours during crisis-intervention workers are available, he

A war artist goes to war

Allan Harding MacKay, an artist with 79 paintings in the collection of the Canadian War Museum, destroyed four of his works on Parliament Hill on Thursday. "This particular government is suppressing traditions in Canada," MacKay said, adding that he strongly objects to what he called "very deliberate attempts to game the system of Parliament," such as holding committee meetings behind closed doors and the practice of packing important legislation into a large omnibus bill, resulting in less debate. Tuition hike. Charest deal not enough, students say

Battling a tuition hike, Quebec students say they will not back down despite a tentative deal reached with Premier Jean Charest last Saturday. "We're here to show Charest that we're going to follow him wherever he goes until he backs down on this tuition hike," said protestor Iain Brannigan, who was among a group picketing the Lac-Leamy Hilton where Charest spoke at a conference of municipalities.

The tentative agreement brought back to the student union for a vote has an overwhelming majority against it, Brannigan said, adding they reject the deal since "it provides no movement on his part.'

On Tuesday night in Montreal, the Concordia University student union voted against the deal. Brannigan said other groups will follow suit.

In the package, the government offered to improve bur-saries and loans and spread the tuition hike over seven years, with yearly fee increases of $254.

Great Scott! A gull-winged 1982 DeLorean decked out as the pop-culture icon from the Back to the Future franchise drew smiles and turned heads on Bank Street Thursday as it touched down in Ottawa ahead of Comiccon this

"We've done quite a bit of time travelling in the DeLorean," said owner Olimber of the control of the ver Holler of North Myrtle Beach, S.C., who with his wife Terry has logged more than 300,000 kilometres in the car while bringing it to events around North and South America.

Hockey. MacLean takes flack for 9-11 comment

For once, Don Cherry isn't in the hot seat over what he said on Hockey Night In Canada.

Instead it's his longtime onair companion Ron MacLean, who sparked controversy when he compared players to 9-11 first responders prior to Wednesday's playoff game between New York and Washington. At the start of the broadcast,

At the start of the broadcast, MacLean notes that the two cities were united by the tragedy of the Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attacks.

He says it is "crazy to compare what the emergency responders did during that time, but a spirit has to start somewhere."

He then goes on to say you "can't help but be struck by the players and the way they've played these games.

played these games.
"They are like police officers, they are like firefighters. You can't fight fire with ego. The pain these men have faced, the price they keep on paying, the hearts they keep on lifting."

MacLean and the CBC issued a statement Thursday to "clarify" the comments, which were rebuked by columnists on both sides of the border and scorned on Twitter.

But his statement failed to soothe some on the social-networking website, who noted he opted to explain rather than back down from the comparison son.

"Ron Maclean decides to defend instead of back off his ... ridiculous hyperbole. A stupid, disrespectful comparison but not malicious," tweeted Jason Pachkowski of Regina.

While he didn't retract the comments in the statement, he did elaborate on his thought DIOCESS. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Judge deems crucial new evidence inadmissible in Michael Rafferty trial

London. Jury sequestered in the trial of 8-year-old Tori Stafford's alleged murderer as laptop evidence comes to light

A laptop computer belonging to the man accused of kidnapping, sexually assaulting and killing Victoria Stafford was used to search online for "real underage rape" and "nude preteen" not long before the eight-year-old was abducted, court documents indicate.

But the jury in Michael Rafferty's trial — now sequestered and deciding his fate — doesn't know it, along with a number of other facts that the court deemed inadmissible.

The Crown contends Rafferty also downloaded "substantial" amounts of child pornography, and there was evidence of snuff films — movies depicting real killings — on his laptop. A woman he met online alleged that he drugged, choked and raped her. A litany of past dates reported he had a penchant for sexual choking. Some even complained of his "disconcerting" behaviour toward their children.

The jury doesn't know that, either.

Superior Court Judge Thomas Heeney refused to allow evidence found on Rafferty's laptop and BlackBerry — the searches, the evidence of child porn and a downloaded movie about Karla Homolka — because the search violated Rafferty's charter rights.

When searched Rafferty's car and found the two devices, they should have obtained another search warrant to examine their contents, Heeney ruled — even though at the time there was no binding authority upon them to do so.

'Critical equipment shortfalls' for Canadian military in Arctic

Parkas

An earlier briefing note, dated Jan. 20, 2011, said a decision by National Defence head-quarters to concentrate on buying combat coats and wind pants caused a shortage of narkas

"To find they didn't have enough parkas, this is Canada for goodness sakes" said Rob Huebert, University of Calgary.

The army was required to raid the air force's stock of olive drab jackets and insulated bib overalls. The supply had been rationed in late 2010.

Six years after the Harper government declared the Arctic to be a new operations area for the Canadian military, the army has struggled to find enough parkas, cold-weather tents, lanterns and heaters to equip forces that take part in its annual summer exercise.

the table to the table to the table to the table to the table tabl

The briefings also show the army worried about running out of parkas, and turned to the air force for help.

The army is "required to affirm national sovereignty and conduct patrolling and surveillance operations," said a May 26, 2011, briefing note for Lt.-Gen. Peter Delving, the country's top soldier.

The document was obtained by The Canadian Press under the federal access-to-information law.

The request to buy gear came from Land Forces Atlantic region units taking part in the annual Arctic exercise Operation Amok, which the Conservative government has used as a showcase for its northern ambitions.

"Although the (land force areas) have received some equipment critical to achieving (initial operating capability), their equipment lists are inadequate or incomplete, and some immediate purchases are required in order to ensure mobility, survivability and credibility within the context of Op Amok 11."

Specifically, the units needed tents, trailers for all-terrain vehicles, cooking stoves, storage containers, lanterns and heaters for multi-day patrols that take soldiers away from forward bases and deep into the barren wilderness.

The briefing warned that without the trailers for equipment, patrol ranges would be limited. It noted the shortages were nothing new in the annual marquee exercise, which has seen the prime minister, the defence minister and chief of defence staff drop in for high-profile photo-ops.

Sochi. Chechens, Georgians blamed for foiled terror plot

Russian agents have foiled terror attack plans on the Black Sea resort of Sochi, host of the 2014 Winter Olympics, authorities said Thursday, blaming Chechen separatists and neighbouring Georgia for jointly masterminding the plans.

Orange wave continues to hit Tory shores

Poll. Jack Layton legacy continues, according to Harris Decima survey

A new poll suggests the New Democrats are widening their support across the country.

The Canadian Press Harris Decima survey indicates that the NDP have 34 per cent of popular support, compared to 30 per cent for the Conservatives.

With a margin of error of 2.2 percentage points, support for the two parties could be equally split.

"Remember this is a party that a decade ago, half the electorate said they would 'never' vote for," said Allan Gregg, chairman of Harris Decima.

"To broaden their base as we see in these data is quite remarkable."

Overall, the Liberals continue to hold steady at 20 per cent support, the poll says.

Just over 2,000 Canadians were polled for the survey in the last week of April and first week of May.

Deadly car bombs shake Syria

Terror in Damascus.

Massive blasts near government building kill 55 and further derail dwindling hopes for an end to violence

Twin suicide car bombs exploded outside a military intelligence building and killed 55 people Thursday, tossing mangled bodies in the street in the deadliest attack against a regime target since the Syrian uprising began 14 months ago.

The bombings fuelled fears of a rising Islamic militant element among the forces seeking to oust President Bashar Assad and dealt a further blow to international efforts to end the bloodshed.

The first car bomb went off on a key six-lane highway during the morning rush hour, knocking down a security wall outside the government building and drawing people to the scene, witnesses said. A much larger blast soon followed, shaking the neighbourhood, setting dozens of cars ablaze and sending up a grey mushroom cloud visible around the capital.

Syrian state TV video showed dozens of bodies, some charred or dismembered, strewn in the rubble or still inside damaged cars. An Associated Press reporter at the scene saw medics in rubber gloves picking through the site for human remains amid the two craters that were blasted into the asphalt.

The Interior Ministry, which oversees the police and security services, said 55 people were killed and more than 370 were wounded. Officials said suicide bombers detonated explosives weighing more than 1,000 kilograms.

The government blamed the attack on armed terrorists it says are driving the uprising, which has grown into the strongest threat to the Assad family dynasty in its four decades in power.

The Pentagon reacts. Search continues for soldier held captive by Taliban

The military and the intelligence community are doing everything possible to find 26-year-old Sgt. Bowe Bergdahl, who was taken prisoner in Afghanistan almost three years ago, Pentagon leaders said Thursday in the aftermath of criticism from the soldier's family.

Army Gen. Martin Dempsey, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, says there is a poster of the soldier inside U.S. Central Command's operations centre as a constant reminder that he is missing in action. He said he has met with Bergdahl's parents in his office and corresponded with them several times.

Bergdahl's parents went public this week with secret

U.S. attempts to trade their son for Taliban prisoners in U.S. hands. They say they are frustrated by what they believe are stalled efforts to free him.

He is the subject of a proposed prisoner swap in which the Obama administration would allow the transfer of five Taliban prisoners long held at the U.S. military prison at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

The proposal has been in limbo for months, however, and faces serious opposition in Congress. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mayan astronomy more optimistic than we thought?

Celestial calendar.

Small room inside Guatemalan ruins reveals detailed work and calls into question doomsday predictions

Archaeologists have found a small room in Mayan ruins where royal scribes apparently used walls like a blackboard to keep track of astronomical records and the society's intricate calendar some 1,200 years ago.

The walls reveal the oldest known astronomical tables from the Maya. Scientists already knew they must have been keeping such records at that time, but until now the oldest known examples dated from about 600 years later.

Astronomical records were key to the Mayan calendar, which has gotten some attention recently because of doomsday warnings that it predicts the end of the world this December. Experts say it makes no such prediction. The new finding provides a

Aveni, along with William Saturno of Boston University and others, report the discovery in Friday's issue of the journal Science.

The room is part of a large complex of Mayan ruins in the rain forest at Xultun in northeastern Guatemala. The walls also contain portraits of a seated king and some other figures, but it's clear those have no connection to the astronomical writings, the scientists said.

Aveni said it would allow scribes to predict the appearance of a full moon years in advance, for example. Such record-keeping was key to Mayan astrology and rituals and could have been used to advise the king on when to go to war or how good the year's crops would be, he said.

Ôn an adjacent wall are numbers indicating four time spans from roughly 935 to 6,700 years. It's not clear what they represent, maybe the scribes were doing calculations that combined observations from important astronomical events like the movements of Mars, Venus and the moon, the researchers said. Logix has set out to become Ontario's leading full service provider of OPA microFIT approved photovoltaic (PV) rooftop and ground mount solar arrays.

The combination of talented staff and dedication has made Solar Logix a solar industry leader in Ontario. Adaptability combined with an open relationship with the other service providers has streamlined the process, where Solar Logix can "Make It Easy" for all of its clients to take advantage of the microFIT program. Open and friendly, Solar Logix can answer all your questions.

Solar Logix aims to substantially increase the production of clean solar generated power within our communities. Solar Logix will be making it easy for its clients to become solar power generators by professionally managing all of the logistics in a safe and efficient manner.

From system design to installation and monitoring, Solar Logix manages every aspect of your rooftop solar installation and keeps you informed along the

With six steps to get you started, Solar Logix is making it easy to build a more sustainable planet for the future.

FREE ON-SITE CONSULTATION

Solar Logix starts each on-site consultation with a brief discussion regarding your unique solar panel array installation needs and desires, followed by a preliminary feasibility study.

Solar Logix will then review the initial estimate, your purchasing options, and the level of income your Solar Logix rooftop or ground mount solar panel array system will generate for years to come.

SITE ASSESSMENT

After booking a site assessment, a Solar Logix professional site surveyor will:

- Analyze the solar energy potential of your site.
- Check for seasonal shading and potential obstructions.
- Inspect the site's structural state to ensure requirements are met for obtaining a building permit.
- Inspect electrical for grid-tie compatibility.
- Gather all necessary information to create your site specific feasibility study.

GENERATE POWER ... AND MONEY

You can be part of Ontario's growing green energy movement, make money and contribute to a cleaner environment. If you are a homeowner, farmer or small business owner, you have the opportunity to develop a very small or "micro" renewable electricity generation project (10 kilowatts or less in size) on your property. Under the microFIT program, you will be paid a guaranteed price for all the electricity your project produces for at least 20 years.

"Solar Logix is very excited about where the microFIT and large FIT green energy program is evolving to in Ontario," says Callum Thomson, Solar Logix regional sales manager.

"With more and more Ontarians realizing the need to convert our electrical grid to a renewable source, the prospects for new solar developments have never been greater. Combine the advances in technology, the decreased costs of solar products and the incredible financing and leasing options that Solar Logix can provide, and the opportunity to make money from a solar development is more accessible than ever."

ZACHARY BODISH/THE ASSOCIATED PRES

The 46-year-old Bodish, who was an event and volunteer coordinator at a local museum for six years, originally turned to the Internet and a personal blog to write about his neat find from early March. Bodish had lately been supplementing his income with buying and reselling restored furniture, and he suddenly realized he may have hit jackpot.

"I could tell it was not a modern print," he said. "So I thought, 'Well, it's probably not really a fine Picasso print. What's the chance of finding that in a thrift store in Columbus, Ohio?"

His online search led him to the print's history as an exhibition advertisement. And he began to look closely at some very faded red writing on the lower right area, which he originally thought were random pencil marks from the thrift store.

"It wasn't until I realized where the signature would be, and that those little red marks were right where the signature should be, that I got a stronger magnifying glass out and determined that, 'Holy cow! It's really a Picasso."

Athens deadlock may actually end

Hopes rose slightly Thursday that Greece could end its deadlock without having a new election.

Socialist leader Evangelos Venizelos, who received the presidential mandate to form a government after two other party chiefs failed, said a meeting Thursday with a potential kingmaker had proved encouraging.

If he fails, President Karolos Papoulias will convene party leaders in a last-ditch effort to get a deal. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Identity. Government surgeons ready to offer sex-change services with no questions asked

Transgender-rights activists say Argentina now leads the world by granting people the right to change their legal and physical gender identity simply because they want to, without having to endure degrading judicial, psychiatric and medical procedures beforehand.

The gender-identity law that won congressional approval with a 55-0 Senate vote Wednesday night is the latest in a growing list of bold moves on social issues by the Argentine government, which also legalized gay marriage two years ago. These changes primarily

Activists and academics who have tracked gender-identity laws and customs worldwide said Thursday that no other country has gone so far to embrace gender self-determination. In the United States and Europe, transgender people must submit to physical and mental-health exams and get past a series of other hurdles before getting sex-change treatments.

Argentina's law also is the first to give citizens the right to change their legal gender without first changing their bodies, said Justus Eisfeld, co-director of Global Action for Trans Equality. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CANADIAN TIRE JUMPSTART CHARITIES HAS HELPED MORE THAN 400,000 KIDS PARTICIPATE IN SPORTS

Jonathan Hood spends a lot of time telling young people about his own athletic journey. For the Hamilton Tiger-Cats defensive back, sharing the lessons he has learned with others is an important part of the job. "Sports can teach you how to win and lose gracefully and how to get along with other people," he says. "It can also teach you about teamwork, group dynamics and life skills."

When Hood isn't honing his own impressive football skills, he works as a public speaker, mentor and coach. He runs a camp in the offseason that teaches young players the fundamentals of football. He's involved with the GTA Youth Athletics Club and has spearheaded MPower, an organization that provides leadership skills and mentoring for at-risk youth. Plus, he speaks to high school students every chance he gets.

These days Hood is spreading his message about sport in another way, through his involvement with Canadian Tire Jumpstart Charities. He's one of a number of elite Canadian athletes who have lent their names and images to a 12-month calendar that will raise funds for Canadian Tire Jumpstart's many sport and recreational programs.

The list of participants in the calendar is impressive. Four-time world figure-skating champion Kurt Browning, champion high jumper Nicole Forrester, Chicago Black Hawks star Jonathan Toews and hockey gold medallist Sami Jo Small were all chosen because of their continuing support for Canadian Tire Jumpstart.

Since 2005, Canadian Tire Jumpstart has helped more than 400,000 children participate in sports and recreation programs. But with one-third of Canadian families unable to enrol their children in sports programs because of cost, many kids are still missing out on the health benefits, self-esteem and camaraderie that participating in sports can offer

Add to that the fact that budget cuts across the country mean less physical education and extracurricular activity in school. What's more, childhood obesity is dramatically on the rise, along with a general perception that neighbourhoods aren't safe places to play anymore.

Hood believes it's up to everyone in a community to do their part to support youth sports and activities. "You have to look at yourself," he says. "If you were coached and mentored when you were a kid, you are better off for it. Programs like Canadian Tire Jumpstart are opportunities to let young people achieve their dreams. We should all support that.'

On May 26, most Canadian Tire stores in Canada will host fun activities and draws to help raise money for their local community. Examples of this year's Jumpstart Day events include car washes, barbecues, draws and raffles.

Throughout May, Canadian Tire Jumpstart Charities is asking Canadians to donate $2 for its popular red ball in one of two new designs (a basketball and a baseball) to support Jumpstart Day. The One Million Red Ball (OneMillionRedBalls.ca) campaign kicked off on May 4. Customers can pick up a ball at Canadian Tire stores and Gas+ locations, Mark's and Pita Pit locations

"We're challenging Canadians to raise $1 million through the sale of the balls," says Canadian Tire Jumpstart Charities president Dan Thompson.

KIDS GET A JUMPSTART ON SPORTS

Every child in Canada has the right to participate in sports and recreation activities, but many families can't afford the fees. Since Canadian Tire Jumpstart Charities was established in 2005, it has helped more than 400,000 children aged four to 18 take part in such activities as swimming, dance, tae kwon do, soccer, basketball and learn-to-bike programs.

"We cover the cost of registration, equipment and/or transportation," says Dan Thompson, the president of Canadian Tire Jumpstart Charities. "We also lend support to unique communitybased initiatives aimed at increasing access to sport and recreation programs."

More than 300 local chapters across the country partner with such community organizations as Big Brothers Big Sisters, Boys & Girls Clubs, parks and recreation departments, sports associations — even the police. It means that Canadian Tire Jumpstart transforms not only a child's life, but also an entire community

An incredible 100 per cent of customer donations go directly to help kids in financial need take part in organized sport and recreation. And any Canadian Tire Jumpstart fundraising done locally stays in that community.

Kids get so much more than the physical health benefits of exercise from playing sports or dancing. "They also gain self-confidence and learn leadership skills," says Thompson. "We want Canadians to try to imagine how different their lives might be now if they hadn't been able to do these activities when they were young."

Applications for assistance can be submitted from Jan. 15 to June 1 for spring/summer programs, and from July 1 to Nov. 1 for fall/winter programs. Applicants will be notified by their local Canadian Tire Jumpstart chapter representative if they've been approved or if more details are needed. All of the information is kept confidential.

HOCKEY PROGRAM

Eric Leighton was an avid hockey player who died in May of 2011 at the age of 18 from injuries sustained after an explosion occurred in an automotive shop class at Ottawa's Mother Teresa Catholic High School.

"Eric loved to play sports," says his mother, Sheri Leighton played recreational lacrosse, soccer, basketball, baseball, football and dodge ball. "He also liked to coach younger players on their skills and their confidence, and he was a great role model," adds Sheri. "So establishing a program with Canadian Tire Jumpstart Charities to honour his memory was a good fit."

In mid-January, Canadian Tire Jumpstart Charities, the City of Ottawa and the Leighton family launched the I Love to Play Hockey Program in Memory of Eric Leighton. For two months during hockey season, the program offered free skates, helmets, sticks, jerseys, lessons and a tournament to 60 Ottawa-area children aged 10 to 15 from low-income neighbourhoods.

To date, donations have reached more than $22,000, with Canadian Tire Jumpstart matching the first $10,000 in donations. To donate to I Love to Play Hockey, visit canadiantire.ca/jumpstart.

WE'VE HELPED THOUSANDS

In 2011, thanks to generous donations and fundraising efforts, we helped 102,427 kids participate in 71 activities. From swim club to hockey camp, from football to dance, Canadian Tire Jumpstart funds are reaching the kids who need it the most.

Google. Bing builds search showcase

Microsoft's Bing search engine is heading in a new direction as it drills deeper into Facebook's social network and Twitter's messaging service to showcase information unlikely to be found on Google.

The changes, unveiled Thursday, will reshape how Bing displays its search results. It represents Microsoft's most dramatic shift in Internet search since the software maker introduced Bing as a "decision engine" nearly three years ago.

Microsoft Corp. is counting on the new format to loosen Google's stranglehold on the lucrative Internet search market. In the process, Microsoft hopes to turn a profit in its online division, which has lost more than $6.3 billion US since Bing's June 2009 debut.

Bing replaced "Live Search," a mostly futile attempt to challenge Google. Microsoft touted Bing as a Google alternative that would provide more meaningful results by helping people make important decisions, such as picking a doctor and finding the best time to buy an airline ticket.

Canadian farms drop 10 per cent in five years: Census

Canada's agricultural landscape

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Preview. Crouse and Breslin share their picks for popcorn season — Prometheus and The Dark Knight Rises top the list Richard: Mark, as summer movie titles go, Abraham Lincoln: Vampire Hunter has to be the grabbiest. Either that or Piranha 3DD. Both sound like fun Saturday afternoon matinees, but for nighttime viewing I think I'm most looking forward to Prometheus, the sort-of prequel to Alien. It's Ridley Scott in sci-fi mode, which means we can expect an artistic and creepy space opera with cool effects and a face-hugger or two.

Mark: Yes, I'm looking forward to Prometheus as well. But am I foolish to secretly count down the days to Rock of Ages, the '80s hairmetal musical? I avoided the live show but the trailer looked like a hoot! C'mon, Richard — Tom Cruise in a blond shag rockin' out to Foreigner hits? The art of cinema just doesn't get any better!

RC: I hope Rock of Ages is as loud and proud as the music it covers. Forget 3D for this one, give me Odorama! I want to smell the gallons of Aqua Net it must have taken to give Alec Baldwin that hair! Also likely on the loud and proud side should be The Bourne Legacy. Jeremy Renner is stepping in for Matt Damon who made the character famous. Renner is all kinds of awesome, but let's see if he can duke out like Damon.

MB: Reboots make me nervous, Richard. They work too hard or not hard enough. Which brings us

Synopsis

Everybody knows the official first day of summer is Wednesday June 20, but in movie theatres the silly season actually starts earlier. In fact, it began last weekend with the release of The Avengers, the boffo superhero movie that kicked off the balmy blockbuster season. This week the Reel Guys have a look at the superhero stories, remakes, reboots, reimaginings and more we'll be watching during air conditioner season.

to Total Recall, one of my favourite dystopian scifi films. Will it be better than the Schwarzenegger version? Worse? Will Colin Farrell run for governor someday? Don't know, but I can't wait to see it. Also Ted, the talking, wisecracking, R-rated teddy bear movie. If this were not Seth Macfarlane's movie, I'd totally avoid it, but the trailer is hysterical!

RC: The red band trailer for Ted made me laugh harder than almost anything else I've seen this year. It'll be rude and crude, but I think Mark Wahlberg is an underrated comic actor, so I'm excited. I can't believe we've gotten to this point and haven't mentioned the caped elephant in the room, The Dark Knight Rises. I saw six minutes of this on an IMAX screen and it made my mind grapes tingle. And I cannot wait to see the rest.

MB: It will be the movie of the summer, the box office hit of the year, and turn Tom Hardy into a household name. I'll probably camp out in line the night before it opens.

Sir Ben Kingsley brings a touch of class to Sacha Baron Cohen's comedy

The Dictator. From Gandhi to General Aladeen's uncle -Kingsley is always up for a challenge

PATALANO

The man who played Gandhi has portrayed many other heavy characters throughout his long career, but a king of comedy he's never been. Sir Ben Kingsley is the first to own up to this, but it seems worth a shot in order to work with a man whom he mentions in the same breath as Charlie Chaplin.

"The great ones, like Chaplin and Sacha Baron Cohen make it look effortless,"

"It's not effortless."

In the latest film from the man responsible for Ali G, Borat and Bruno, Sir Kingsley portrays the menacing uncle of Admiral General Aladeen (Cohen), the dictator of fictional African nation Wadiya. Though he's not dropping the one-liners the way Baron Cohen gets to, this English actor brings an air of sophistication to the film.

With any Sacha Baron Cohen project, the humour comes out of how truthful it is. What's the most important 'serious message' in the film?

I am hoping personally that it will reveal in people per-haps some hidden fears or prejudices. ... (Baron Cohen and his creative team) voice certain phobias, prejudices. ... It might cause people to feel resentment, not offense, because Sacha's character is saying things that, if they said it, they would be arrested or lose their job, but they are capable of saying those things. Î think that's where satire is really valuable. Those that are made to feel uncomfortable will feel resentful that in their enforced political correctness, they're not allowed to be anti-Semitic, 'Like, why can that f—ker up there say it and if I say it, I'll lose my

You got to spend a lot of time holding Baron Cohen's hand throughout the film. How was that for you?

Sacha Baron Cohen was responsible for Borat which many have said was one of the best movies of the last decade, but it did not receive a Best Picture Oscar nomination. Why do comedies never win that category?

think there's this misconception that's comunderstandable, pletely

That is the relationship, you see. I am his uncle, and I know that he's still a child. so whatever street he has to cross, be it in the UN or arriving in New York, or going to a nuclear facility, he's crossing a street. I know he's a total idiot and I've done nothing to further his education, or his well being. It's better for my character, the uncle, to infantilize and keep him there.

> that comedy is easy - that we're basically having fun. All we're doing is fooling around in front of a camera. I could talk for years trying to dispel this myth but nobody wants to hear it. Sacha was talking to me about the science of comedy - how one to ten, the value of a certain reaction. Where it is in the film, in the editing, whether to go for two sevens or cut them and go for a ten and always to keep poking at the nerve ... that prejudiced

So then would you put this performance on par with

body chemistry changes to the same degree on the word action, no matter what I'm doing. Whether it's a marathon or a series of sprints, I still have to use the same muscles, so I can't really differentiate.

Jiro Dreams of Sushi

Director, David Gelb

Stars, Jiro Ono

Jiro Ono is widely regarded as the world's greatest sushi maker, but unlike his famous Western celeb-chef contemporaries, he has no desire for the spotlight: his michelin-starred sushi bar is located in a Tokyo subway station, David Gelb's affectionate, precisely edited portrait touches on some larger issues about Japanese culture — particularly the inheritance of talent and legacy from father to son but it's best viewed as a showcase for Jiro's dishes.

ADAM NAYMAN

Dark Shadows

Director. Tim Burton

Stars, Johnny Depp, Michelle Pfeiffer, Éva Green

Watching Tim Burton's big budget cinematic relaunch of Dan Curtis' cult '60s daytime soap opera Dark Shadows is like being trapped in some sort of drug laced alternate universe ... and that's a good thing. Burton casts his muse Johnny Depp as vampire Barnabas Collins, who is freed from his coffin in 1972 after being put there by his spurned lover centuries before. How he copes with a disenfranchised America and his ancestors is campy fun for sure. Outside of the surrealism, this is really just a soap opera after all. It's also one of the bravest, weirdest studio films this critic has ever seen. CHRIS ALEXANDER

Hard Core Logo 2

Director. Bruce McDonald

Stars, Adrien Dorval, Care Failure, Shannon Jardine

To paraphrase Senator Lloyd Bentsen, "I knew Hard Core Logo, and sir, Hard Core Logo 2 is no Hard Core Logo." Instead it is a wonderfully heated examination of obsession, media and the march of time. Director Bruce McDonald has created a pop confec-tion that sparkles with life and excitement. The gritty feel of the original movie is gone, replaced by an eclectic visual style that tells the story of a punk rock singer, played by the fiercely char-ismatic Care Failure, who just might be possessed by the spirit of the singer of Hard Core Logo.

Here. New album definitely more of a team effort says lead singer Alex Ebert

HFAIY

When asked how the writing process differed between Up From Below, the 2009 debut from Edward Sharpe and the Magnetic Zeros and their upcoming album, Here, singer Alex Ebert is quick to give credit to the 11 other members of his band.

"It was a little more all-togethery," he says. "We all sat around and worked on arrangements together.'

Ebert may have just "allcoined the phrase, togethery" on the spot, but it's quite an accurate description. A few of the songs on Here don't even feature a lead vocal and are more like group sing-alongs.

embers of Edward Sharpe and the Magnetic Zeros. Their new album is called Here. $_{

"As we became a band over the last three years, doing all these radio sessions, we would sing together in an acoustic environment, really hearing each other," says Ebert.

Like its predecessor, the album is full of fun, funky folk, but with more of a focus.

"I don't tend to put out stuff that has a major themat-ic through-line," says Ebert. "I tend to do what my detractor's would call unfocused albums.

The theme of Here seems to be a sort of reckoning with the evils of the world and finding goodness and spirituality within oneself, independent of any organized religion.

"I would say it's an im-mense amount of defiance in the face of what would otherwise create a dejected character," says Ebert. "Defi-

Detractors have also used terms like "hippies" and "cult" to describe the big band of Zeros. Ebert doesn't mind.

"A cult is a cult until it becomes popular and then it's a religion," he reasons. "We do have an ethos, I would say, so in that sense we share some ideas that we tend to agree on, but I don't think that's necessarily any different than a lot of groups of people.'

Because of such a long time touring between al-bums, Ebert and his crew have come up with so much new material that they have a second new album they hope to release later this year. The style of the as of yet untitled album is a departure for the group that became famous for their whistle-along single, Home.

"It's much more aggressive," says Ebert, "not angsty aggressive but sonically aggressive. There is some distortion, which we rarely dabble in. If ever there was an album that I was slightly nervous about delivering, I would say it would be this album.

"It's a little bit outside the realm that we've played in, but that's always fun to do for yourself.

"We feel quite comfortable putting out anything that we love, knowing that we have these people to share it with, and a growing number of people to share it with, too.'

Spektor's new album is full of surprises, even for her Eclectic repertoire.

Singer-songwriter says she forgets some of her old songs as she's busy making new ones

PAT HEALY

Metro News in Bosto

Regina Spektor would really appreciate it if you could put your camera phone videos of her performances up online.

Not only do those videos help her remember how the new songs she is working out in concert go, but they also help her retrieve songs that she forgets how to play.

"In Florida I had to go online and go to YouTube and figure out the chords," she says of a song from her 2009 album, Far. "I've written so much stuffs ince then that I've pushed it out of my head."

And as far as the bootlegs of songs in progress go, she says if not for those phone videos, the songs Patron Saint and Open probably wouldn't have even made it onto her new album, What We Saw from the Cheap Seats.

from the Cheap Seats.

"I got lucky that it was up there, actually," she says.

It's hard to believe that the singer would forget the latter song, because its repetition of dramatic inhalation during the chorus seems so instantly memorable. But Spektor does a lot of memorable things to make listeners forget that for most of her album and her live performance it's just her voice and her piano. In the new song, The Party she purs-

"When I wrote it, in my mind it was just a place-holder for a real trumpet," she says. "First of all, it's really fun to do; it's a fun feeling, like even walking around the house being a trumpet. If you bring things from their implied state to a real state, sometimes it becomes better and sometimes, I don't know ... you try to feel what's right for the song."

Spektor says her producer, Mike Elizondo, teased her that when she beat boxes she sounds like a drum machine from the 1980s.

"I do a lot of things, like certain little beats and sounds, because I'm a person with a piano and that's it," she says.

Spiritualized's Pierce uses pain as motivation

NOLAN GAWRON

Spiritualized records have a history of being some of the most intricate, complex and laborious undertakings in modern rock. Conceived from the mind of Jason Pierce and translated to tape, Spiritualized's musical journey has included psychedelic freakouts and overwhelming orchestral offerings to gospel soul and epic etherealism. Exploring the sonic peaks and valleys of drug use complete with religious allusions, the band's anxious buildups and triumphant crescendos are like symphonies for substance sympathizers.

Jason Pierce isn't easy to track down, but at the last possible moment, Metro was able to talk to him about the recent release of his seventh album, Sweet Heart Sweet Light.

Sweet Heart Sweet Light.
"I f—ing hate making records," says Pierce, wryly. "I really do. And it just gets harder. Sometimes I think I just make a record to tour because I feel the need to get back on the road. There's something exciting live when you're pushing it and you're within it, but you're not trying to hold onto it."

Pierce says when he started making Sweet Heart, he wanted it to sound like the Beatles.

"Then halfway through I realized I didn't really like the Beatles," he says. "Not that I don't like the Beatles' music, but I decided I wouldn't like to make a record like that."

He says he was looking to produce sounds that defied genre classification.

"I wanted to make something where you didn't have to be hip to a certain style or music, you could just sit and listen to it like a collection of songs that really worked," he says. "When I tried to put that down, it became very hard to make. Anyone trying to make pop music has nowhere to hide. You can't hide in an abstract idea. It doesn't really come with a disclaimer."

While his previous record followed his near-death experience with double pneumonia, Sweet Heart Sweet Light was written during another health scare, one he doesn't like to talk about.

Bernie Finkelstein

Reflections on a life in indie music

SOUND CHECK Alan Cross scene@metronews.ca

Bernie Finkelstein sounds relaxed over the phone from his getaway in Prince Edward County. Fruits of having sold his True North Records in late 2007? "A little bit," he says, "although it's more about more free time. I've gone from 21 acts to managing just one, plus I closed the office in Toronto."

Bernie is being asked to talk a lot about himself these days with the publication of his autobiography, True North: A Life in the Music Business, which starts with his time as an air force brat through all his years running one of the most important and most successful independent music labels in this country. True North also had interests in artist management, music publishing and concert promotion.

"I thought I'd better write down these memories so that maybe one day in the future when someone is researching the history of Canadian music, they can find my book on a dusty library shelf somewhere — if those things still exist — and use it to tell the story."

Bernie is concerned about Canadians' short memory when it comes to musical heritage. "Feist was not the first person to have a No. 1 hit on a Canadian independent label. Have we forgotten about what Sarah McLachlan did on Nettwerk? But it's understandable, given that we're overwhelmed with American music history."

True North was

True North was founded in 1969, two years before Canadian content regulations went into effect. "You have to understand that back then there was no Canadian music industry.

Fiction is still stranger than truth

New novel. Writer John Irvina is perplexed by today's obsession with 'reality'

John Irving says today's reality-obsessed culture has affected the way many readers approach fiction and prompted a barrage of questions about whether the famed author's novels are based on his own life.

"We live in a time when people think that reality is more interesting than what can be made up," said acclaimed 70-year-old writer, whose 13th novel, In One Person, is out this

"Well, I've never felt that

In One Person tells the story of Billy Abbott, a sex-ually conflicted writer who begins life in a small Vermont town and ultimately navigates his way through the darkest days of the AIDS crisis in New York City. The subject matter, Irving says, prompted one U.K. publication to pursue a story on whether the author himself is bisexual (the piece was ultimately dropped).

Such pre-occupations are baffling to Irving, whose celebrated works include The World According to Garp and The Cider House Rules. "I published my first novel (Setting Free the Bears) in the late 1960s. Through the 1980s, which would include A Prayer For Owen Meany, which was published in '89 ... almost no one asked me an autobiographical question. No one said: 'Is this your father? Is this your mother? Is this your sister? Is this you? No one asked me," he said.

"Now, it's the first thing you're asked ... I think what's happened to many people is ... they don't read as much fiction as they used to. They're not as consistently reading novels as people were 10 or 25 years ago and so they don't know how to talk about novels so much. They can't imagine a way to imagine a novel without thinking that it must have some personal connection to you.

Cheeky host Cohen's new book follows his unusual rise to fame

Most Talkative. Metro caught up with Andy and asked him about growing up, his crazier memorable moments and being starstruck

You know him as the outgoing Bravo host who fans the fire at Real Housewives reunion shows and presses celebrities with cheeky questions during games of Plead the Fifth on Watch What Happens Live.

But Andy Cohen had a long, winding, and often hilarious, road to his rise as a pop culture guru and celebrity interview extraordinaire. In his new book Most Talkative, Cohen opens up about dreaming of a life in television, what it was like to live in fear of AIDS as a young gay man and working his way up the ladder from a CBS internship in New York City.

Metro: You have gone from wanting to be a local anchor-man, to a TV producer, and now you're in front of the camera. Why decide you decide to share your story in the form of a book?

Cohen: I have all these great stories I've been telling friends for years. I've just always wanted to tell them and I felt like now was the time.

The book is filled with you personal memories. Have you kept a journal over the years? I kept a journal for 11 years that really helped when I was writing about coming out of closet because I felt so alone and scared of coming out.

You talk a lot about your first interview with Susan Lucci and how it was such a pivotal moment for you. Do you ever get star struck these days? I still get a little star struck by

Susan Lucci and it's usually

What has been your most outrageous, memorable moment from an interview?

I think the Oprah story about lying to her and lying to the anchor who I was producing for, Paula Zahn. I conned both of them and it worked into getting something on tape that Oprah had said no to. And I got caught. I probably could have gotten fired.

Can we play a quick game of Plead the Fifth?

ABC to break new ground and take Revenge on live TV

Experiment. Yahoo, U.S. network aim to start new trend for tablet and smartphone users tuning in on their devices

ABC and Yahoo will experiment on the season's last two episodes of Revenge featuring Canadian actress Emily VanCamp — with a smartphone and tablet application designed to encourage more people to watch television live.

There's an enticement, too. People who download and click onto the Into Now application during the May 16 and 23 showings of Revenge become eligible for a free summer trip to New York's Hamptons beach area, where the drama's story is based.

The companies are trying to take advantage of the growing trend of multiscreen use, or people who spend time on their phones or iPads while the TV is on. Yahoo's Into Now app tries to make all of that much

"The world changed dramatically with all the smart-phones and tablets," said Adam Cahan, vice-president of Into Now.

"People are multitasking while they are watching TV We came up with a way of connecting that commun-

When used, the applica-tion can identify what show a viewer is watching and immediately spot Facebook friends who are doing the same thing, Cahan said. It taps into Twitter feeds about the show, including those from actors and producers. Trivia and other details about the show are also readily available, he added.

"We know the finale is going to be big," said Vic-toria Chew, vice-president of strategic marketing partnerships at ABC.
"We know the story lines are going to be things that the fans are going to buzz about and talk about when it's over. We wanted to encourage fans to watch it live.'

Nielsen said eight per cent of all TV viewing is now material recorded on DVRs.

So, for ABC other networks, anything that might encourage live viewing is considered worth a try.

ABC is examining part-nerships with companies that have technology similar to Into Now, but it has no other agreements set, Chew said.

"We're really interested in learning more about the second screen-experience," she said.

For Into Now, the ABC deal also provides an important marketing boost as it tries to establish itself in a growing marketplace.

Selleck lays down the law

Tom Selleck's still got it.

Actor plays two kinds of lawmen, starring in Blue Bloods plus a new Jesse Stone TV film

As Blue Bloods reaches its second-season finale, Tom Selleck is looking ahead to season

On the CBS hit drama, Selleck plays Frank Reagan, the NYPD commissioner and patriarch of a family devoted to law enforcement and one another. His offspring include a detective (Donnie Wahlberg), a cop (Will Estes) and an assistant D.A. (Bridget Moynahan). On duty and off, they, along with the extended Reagan family, have each other's back — even if it's not always easy to say it.

"We Reagans aren't real gushy, but I couldn't be more proud of you," Frank Reagan tells his daughter in one of his more expansive displays.

Frank is an upright, reassuring presence for his brood and for Blue Bloods viewers alike, especially presiding at the head of the table for the family dinners that have become a weekly staple of the show.

The role is a comfortable fit for Selleck, himself a family man wed to Jillie for a quartercentury and with a grown daughter, Hannah.

And yet the role poses challenges: How do you play a character who is strong and in-corruptible without appearing too good to be true?

"A commander can't expose his weakness or doubt or concern or worry," says Selleck. "I have to show all those things to the audience without showing it to the cops I'm ordering around. When you get inside Frank's head, you realize that anybody with the weight of the world on his shoulders will exhibit flaws that come from dealing with that kind of pressure. I think next season we're going to get inside of him more and reveal more of them."

At the same time, Selleck hopes the show will find some lighter moments.

"I can't sit around giving or-ders all day," he says. "They cast me because I can play bosses. But I have other colours I can

No doubt. As the Vietnamvet-turned-private-eye Thomas Magnum, Selleck knew how to play serious with a well-timed wink. And don't forget his guest role on Friends, as well as such comedy features as In & Out and Three Men and a Baby, the top-grossing film of 1987.

Still strikingly handsome at 67, the strapping, dimple-cheeked Selleck has had to

"I can't sit around giving orders all day. They cast me because I can play bosses. But I have other colours I can play."

Tom Selleck, on playing Frank in Blue Bloods work against those leadingman looks ever since his uncertain start as an actor.

"When I was 25 I sounded 15 and looked 35," he says with a laugh. "That clearly wasn't working. It was only when I kind of grew into myself that the quirky aspects of what I do became a strength."

In a pivotal step that led to his eight seasons on Magnum P.I., Selleck scored a lighthearted guest shot on The Rockford Files. As the charming and charmed investigator Lance White, he struck the perfect comic contrast to the lovably bedeviled gumshoe Jim Rockford. Selleck considers Rockford star James Garner a mentor in showing him how to mine humour from drama.

"I think humour is an essential element of a long career," says Selleck, "and I miss actual comedy. If you want to tell everybody I'm available for the three months Blue Bloods isn't on, I'd LOVE to do a comedy!"

Of course, Selleck was busy during last year's hiatus. He was filming Jesse Stone: Benefit of the Doubt. Airing on CBS on May 20, it's the eighth in the series of Jesse Stone whodunits that began in 2005, based on characters created by the late Robert B. Parker in his best-selling series of books.

Selleck manages to wring sparks of humour from this melancholy lawman, who, as the film begins, has lost his endof-the-line job as police chief of tiny Paradise, Mass.

The surface whodunit surrounds a mob-related double homicide, "but the mystery at the beginning of the tale is always Jesse.

"He's a totally decent guy who has a lot of issues, and deals with them every day," says Selleck. But Jesse is a man of few words — words that often leaven with irony the pain he feels.

"He's had a real journey," Selleck says of his character Jesse. "Right now, in (film) number eight, he's trying to get his job back and put his universe back in order.

Is facial hair standard issue for Selleck?

He's not that attached to his 'mo, actually. "It becomes part of your look and it becomes baggage," he says, "but I never had any qualms about shaving it off" (and did, for example, to play Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in the 2004 TV film Ike: Countdown to D-Day).

Robert Pattinson needs some encouragement

Robert Pattinson admits he's been doing a lot of growing up as an actor, and a good chunk of that came filming David Cronenberg's sex- and violence-filled Cosmopolis, the Twilight star tells Premiere magazine.

"Filming Cosmopolis with David changed something in me," he says

SOCIAL MEDIA PROMOTES AWARENESS

THOUSANDS OF CANADIANS LEARN ABOUT THEIR MENTAL HEALTH THROUGH CMHA, ONTARIO'S 'READ YOUR MIND' ASSESSMENT

Social media has become one of the most pervasive changes around the globe in recent history, bringing up countless debates on the positive and negative effects it has on society. Yet, channels like Facebook connect billions of people worldwide and have opened a new way for organizations to engage the population to learn about and be passionate towards various causes.

This week, the Canadian Mental Health Association (CMHA), Ontario has harnessed the positive power of social media to encourage users to learn about mental health, drawing in more than 5,000 new fans to its Facebook page in just a few short days.

The reason behind this rise in attention is the "Read Your Mind" campaign. launched in conjunction with Mental Health Week (May 7-13), designed to help encourage Ontarians learn about their own mental health.

It focuses on a unique, Facebookbased self-assessment tool (facebook.com/cmha.ontario/) that evaluates common issues affecting mental health including stress, anxiety and depression. Those interested in taking the self-assessment can also earn AIR MILES reward miles in return.

"The 'Read Your Mind' self-assessment is a breakthrough initiative that uses social media in a positive way to encourage Ontarians to learn about their own mental health and reduce the stigma associated with mental illness," said Andreas Souvaliotis, president of AIR MILES for Social Change. "We are very proud to leverage the popularity of AIR MILES to help CMHA realize its goal of 'mental health for all' and invite everyone to take the self-assessment and find out more."

The Ontario Mental Health Helpline creates a whole new level of accessibility and support!

"I'm not sure if this is the right phone number but I really don't know where to start"

Finding answers when feeling overwhelmed and struggling with a mental illness or trying to find help for family and friends can be difficult when you don't know how or where to begin. The Mental Health Helpline provides information about mental health services in Ontario. The helpline is funded by the Government of Ontario and the service is live answer 24/7, confidential, free and anonymous.

"It's about taking time to truly hear what a caller needs", says Tricia Korbut, Supervisor of the Mental Health Helpline, a service of ConnexOntario. ConnexOntario also runs the Ontario Problem Gambling and Drug and Alcohol Helplines.

Reaching out for help can be a difficult first step. Besides the telephone, the Mental Health Helpline can be reached via email or webchat. The medium may be different but the goal is the same—accurate information, delivered in a timely manner by professionals who care.

An easy-like-Sundaymorning sipper

LIQUID ASSETS

A reader sent me an e-mail last week asking if I could recommend a wine to go with breakfast in bed.

While he was looking to impress his wife on their upcoming anniversary, with Mother's Day this weekend I'm betting many of you guys out there will also be looking to score some bonus points Sunday morning.

Eclectic is the best way to describe a breakfast menu. The fun part is that any early morning tipple should be light, fresh and very easy-drinking — the same flavour profile that loves unusual eats.

Though the selection varies across the country, a white wine made with the moscato grape is a perfect early morning sipper.

Slightly sweet and low in alcohol, they're an a.m. friendly wine style gaining a solid following during the day as well.

I think sparkling when it comes to breakfast (or brunch) is best. Forget the orange juice and pick one with the union of fruit and wine already built in.

Chile's Fresita ($12.95 - $15.99) is infused with the essence of real strawberries. The result is a berry bomb that explodes in the mouth and will add plenty of refreshment to your Mother's Day.

1. In saucepan, melt butter and sugar, whisking over medium heat until smooth and combined. Pour into lightly sprayed 8 inch (2 L) baking dish; spread evenly across bottom; set aside.

2. Dough: In bowl, stir flour, baking powder and salt. Cut lard into flour using fingers until mix is crumbly looking.

Drizzle in milk and stir using fork to combine. Bring dough together and knead gently on lightly floured surface to make smooth dough. Roll out dough on floured surface to make a 14inch (35 cm) square.

3. Filling: In bowl, stir butter, sugar and cinnamon until very smooth. Spread evenly all over dough right to the edges. Roll up dough, jelly-roll style and pinch seam along edge. Cut log into 9 equal pieces and place into prepared baking dish.

4. Bake in centre of a 400 F (200 C) oven 25 mins or until golden brown and sauce is bubbly. Let stand for three minutes before turning out onto platter. EMILY RICHARDS IS A PROFESSIONAL HOME ECONOMIST. COOKBOOK AUTHOR AND TV CELEBRITY CHEF, FOR MORE, VISIT EMILYRICHARDSCOOKS.CA

Gram-Slaw. Make one granny's salad a family favourite at your own table

Ah yes, Madison Square Garden, the famed arena in which the host Rangers are 4-0 in Game 7s. It is also the place where the Rangers pulled out a Game 5 win in this series by scoring a power-play goal with 7.6 seconds left in regulation. and then another less than two minutes into overtime, turning what appeared to be a sure loss into one of the most electrifyheading home for Game 6. It tion for Game 7.

"We can't let it," Rangers captain Ryan Callahan said.

ing victories in club history.
You know, the tide-turning win that the Capitals would never be able to bounce back from - even though they were didn't quite work out that way, and now it's the Rangers who will fight to make sure there is no carry-over in the other direc-

Capitals captain Alex Ovechkin sk up ice in Game 5 last Saturday in New York. BRUCE BENNETT/GETTY IMAGES

"We have to put this one behind us. We have to go in Saturday ready to play."

Whoever prevails will face the well-rested New Jersey Devils with a trip to the Stanley Cup finals on the line. The Rangers, eliminated from the playoffs by Washington in two of the previous three seasons, haven't been to the conference finals since 1997. That was three years after they won the cup for the first time in 54 years. The Capitals have never won it all. They were swept in 1998 by Detroit in their only appearance in the cup finals and have been to the conference finals twice.

"It takes a lot of character to bounce back all the time," Capitals coach Dale Hunter said. "You're going to have your ups and downs, especially in the playoffs. We have a lot of character in that room."

Alex Ovechkin has been a symbol of that. He has dealt with limited ice time in the playoffs, but hasn't sulked. He had no shots in Game 5, and it appeared that perhaps he had been neutralized by New York.

Not so fast.

Just 1:28 into the Capitals' last stand at home Wednesday night, Ovechkin zipped a shot over goalie Henrik Lundqvist's suddenly susceptible glove to give Washington a power-play goal and a lead it would never give up in a 2-1 win that saved the season at least for two more days.

"Ovi has been good," Hunter said. "You see him blocking shots. He's dedicated to winning like the rest of he guys are. And doing the little things.

T Aries | March 21 - April 20.

Identify where savings can be made. Don't add to your financial problems by buying things you don't need. Taurus | April 21 - May 21. It may annoy you that someone needs convincing that you care for them. Make the effort. Say something nice. You'll be rewarded this weekend. If Gemini | May 22 - June 20.

Your imagination will get a boost to-day but watch out it doesn't go too far and you start imagining things at are never going to happen.

9 Cancer | June 21 - July 22.

You may have high expectations of yourself. You're going places, but keep your feet on the ground.

↑ Leo | July 23 - Aug. 22. Common sense tells you to steer clear of other people's disputes, especially on e work front.

MASTER.

W Virgo | Aug. 23 - Sept. 22. Do what you feel like doing today, not what other people say you should. You have an obligation to help, but you've done more than your share.

△ Libra | Sept. 23 - Oct. 22.

Someone thinks they can part you from your hard-earned cash by pretending they are in distress and ly you can help them

M Scorpio | Oct. 23 - Nov. 21.

There are many people who expect something for nothing. They're unlikely to get it from you today.

⁷ Sagittarius | Nov. 22 - Dec.

21. You don't have to prove anything to anyone, not today nor any other day. Do what you feel is right. Capricorn | Dec. 22 - Jan

20. Don't let others see that you are desperate to possess something or they will push up the price.

🗻 Aquarius | Jan. 21 - Feb 18. Your ambitions are likely to clash with your personal commitments today - and it is your ambitions that must be favoured.

Here Pisces | Feb. 19 - March 20.

You won't be much in the mood for work today. Just be careful you don't overdo it. Travelling and socializing can be exhausting! SALLY BROMPTON
